User Guide to the family database of

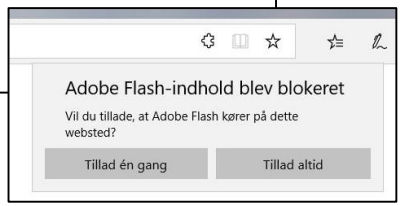
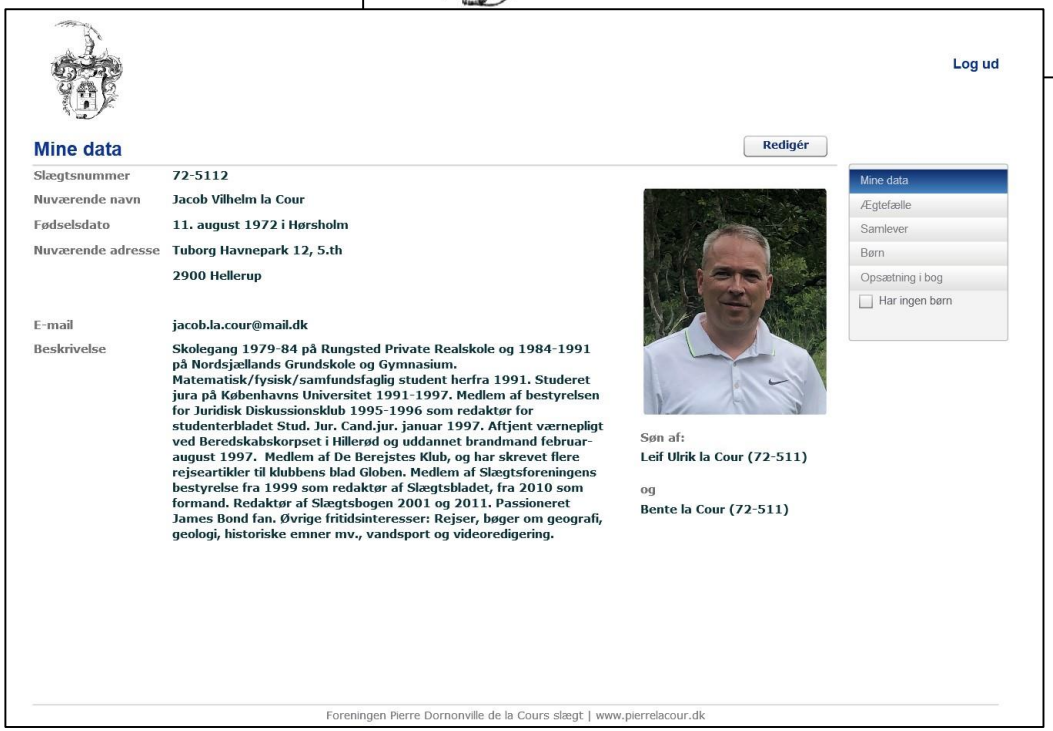
The Association of Pierre la Cour's Family



The database is located under the menu point Database.You will be re-directed to a site called pierrelacourdata.dk

You may be prompted to get Adobe Flash Player. Click Get Flash and then Allow.

You will then reach the access screen where you enter your username (number) and code from the letter, you have received.



You can now see the information we have about you and – by using the menu to the right – your spouse, partner and children.

Mine data means My data
Slægtsnummer means Family number
Ægtefælle means Spouse
Samlever means Partner (not married)
Børn means Children

In order to edit the information, click Rediger

You can now edit your information

Køn means gender, Mand means Man and Kvinde means Woman

Nuværende navn means present name and Fødenavn means maiden name

Fødselsdato means date of birth (use the format dd/mm/yyyy) and Fødested means place of birth

Afgået ved døden means deceased.

Beskrivelse means description

Ønsker at blive optaget i bogen means want to be included in the book. Ja means Yes and Nej means No

If you want to add a spouse, you should click Ægtefælle

If you want to add a present spoiuse, click Tilføj at the top

If you want to add a former spouse, click Tilføj at the bottom

You can now add information and a picture for your spouse.

If your spouse is deceased, you can click the button Afgået ved døden and enter the date

If you have been divorced, you can click the button Er blevet skilt and enter the date

Date formats are dd/mm/yyyy

Vi er flyttet fra hinanden means we have separated

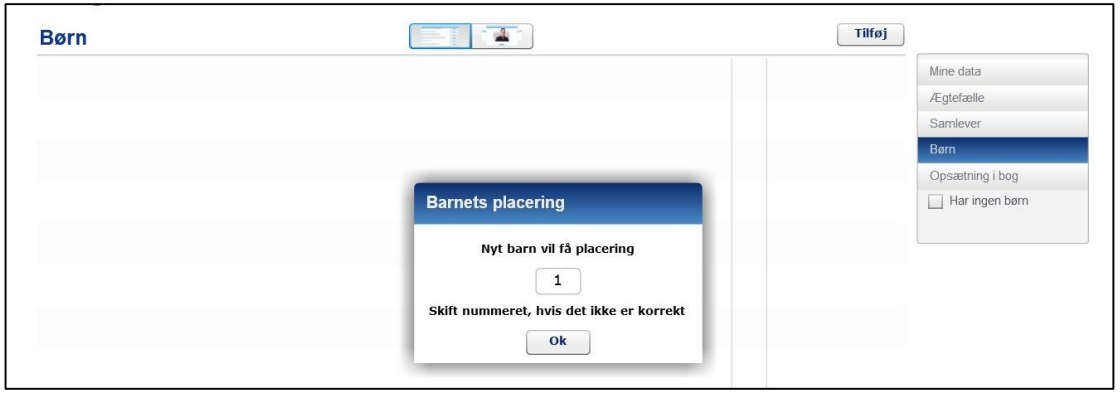
If you already had a spouse listed but your spouse is deceased or you have been divorced, and you have remarried, you can add a new spouse and move (drag-and-drop) the former spouse to the section Tidligere ægtefæller

The page regarding non-married partners works the same way

Ørsted



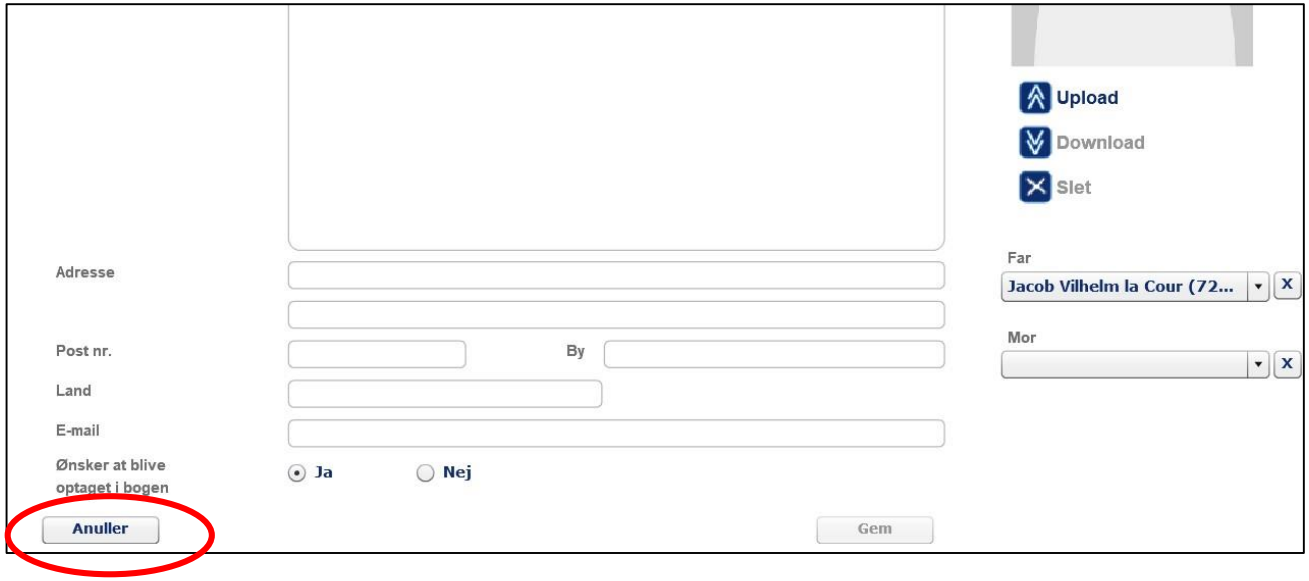
In order to add a child, click the button Børn

Children should be added in the order which they were born. That is important for the numbering stystem. Click Tilføj and the next number in the order will appear. Click OK and the child is awarded a family number

It is important to mark if the child is male (Mand) or female (Kvinde). The information cannot be saved as long as this field is red.

You will always automatically be indicated as the one parent for the child. The second partent can be chosen from the drop down menu, which will contain the persons you have registered as spouses or partners.

If you have neither married nor been a partner with the child's second partent, it cannot be registered. You can then enter the name in the child's description field



If you add a child too many, you can escape by clicking Anuller.

If you already saved the information, you can delete the entry by clicking Slet

If you don't have children, you can click the box Har ingen børn. If you don't do this, the book will state No children registered.

When you are done, you can click Opsætning i bog. You will then be shown what the full entry looks like. You can always go back and edit the information.

The standard text generated by the system – regarding date and place of birth, parent and marriage or divorce will be in Danish, but we are confident that it can be understood anyway.

Good luck – and thanks ☺
